SECRECY SURROUNDS G-MEN'S ACTIVITIES

GOVERNOR TO LET WOMAN DIE IN CHAIR

Horner Refuses Clemency to Murderess and Her Helper

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Refusing to grant clemency, Governor Horner broke precedent today and refused to prevent the electrocution Friday of Mrs. Marie Porter of St. Louis, 37-year-old mother of four daughters.

The governor also refused to commute the death penalty of Angelo Ralph Giancola, 22, St. Louis, convicted with Mrs. Porter for the wedding day insurance slaying of her brother, William Kappen.

They are scheduled to die in the electric chair at the Menard prison early Friday morning.

Illinois has never electrocuted a woman. Horner in several cases has commuted to long terms the death sentences of women convicted of murder.

Available records show that only one woman was hanged for murder in Illinois, at Lawrenceville in 1845.

One Hope Remains
Mrs. Porter's only hope to escape the death penalty is to get a sanity hearing from a court.

The governor, just before leaving Chicago for a trip to Washington, made public through his office here a statement reiterating his opposition to capital punishment, but saying:

"I have searched the record of this case and have been unable to find any circumstance to mitigate the heinousness of the crime.

"The petitioner (Mrs. Porter) is a woman who for months planned the murder of her own brother. On account of his affection for her, she was made the beneficiary of the policies of insurance which he carried and because she was the beneficiary, she decreed his death and hired the executioners to take his life."

Horner added that the condemned prisoners had a fair trial in St. Clair county circuit court.

The governor, when he saved other women from the electric chair, had been quoted as saying he would not permit the execution of a woman. His aids said they have been unable to find that statement in the records.

Kappen was shot to death near Belleville last July 3, several hours before his wedding. The verdict of guilty was returned November 18 before Judge Dick H. Mudge, who remarked that the governor should consider that the evidence showed Mrs. Porter was more guilty than Giancola.

Giancola's 20-year-old brother, John, was convicted of helping with the murder and was given a 99-year prison sentence.

Is Hopeful

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Prevented from attending the state diocesan convention of the Episcopal church at Knoxville by the sudden illness of his wife, the fasting Dean Israel Harding Noe expressed hope today that her condition would permit him to attend Thursday's session.

Mrs. Noe fainted at the Deanery last night only a few minutes before the clergyman planned to depart.

A doctor said the strain of the last few weeks had been too much for her.

At 70, Noe as he looked two years ago. Below is Noe as he appears today.

STATE SOCIETY SEEKS TO HELP DEFECTIVE EYES

Survey Being Made In the Schools of Lee County

Dixon and Lee county boys and girls of school age who have any great degree of defective eyesight may soon have an opportunity to enjoy study conditions in school which will tend to preserve and perhaps repair their sight and enable them to keep pace with their classes in school.

The Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, through its field representative, Miss Bernice Young, is making a survey of Lee and Whiteside counties which will probably result in the establishment of what is known as a "Sight-Saving Class" in the territory encompassed by the two counties. Miss Young has completed her survey of the grade students of Sterling, Rock Falls, Morrison and Fulton and is now in Dixon to determine whether the grade schools here have any partially blind students who could become candidates for the class. She will also survey conditions in the smaller schools in Whiteside and Lee counties before completing her report.

A Sight-Saving Class will be established if it is found that there are ten students who need this attention. Seven have already been found in Whiteside county.

Especially Equipped Rooms
When a Sight-Saving Class is established it is located in a classroom in one of the public schools.

REPORT FRAUD IN INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

Revelations Given Senate By Nevada Senator

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Senator Pittman (D-Nev.) told the Senate today the public lands committee had received "astounding revelations in regard to the laxity and inefficiency, if not criminal carelessness" in the interior department.

The committee has been holding hearings on the nomination of E. K. Burlew to be first assistant secretary of the interior. Testimony has shown that Reno Stittley, an interior department pay clerk, defrauded the government of $84,000 of CCC funds.

Pittman, a committee member, addressed the Senate, before southerners resumed their filibuster against the anti-lynching bill.

He said that while Secretary Ickes was primarily responsible for the interior department, Burlew has been his administrative assistant and also has served as budget officer and personnel officer.

Burlew, Pittman asserted, has "the extraordinary power" of signing any orders issued in the interior department and signs "most" of Ickes' letter "if not all of them."

Senate leaders, resigning themselves to further delay of the administration legislative program, abandoned hope of an immediate showdown on the anti-lynching bill.

Steady Opposition
The controversial measure has drawn a steady, 12 day flow of opposition oratory from southern senators, blocking Senate consideration of the government reorganization bill and other Roosevelt proposals.

Administration lieutenants had talked of wearing down the speakers by holding night sessions, but Democratic Leader Barkley announced none would be ordered this week.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) said, however, he would start demanding strict enforcement of Senate debate rules to prevent dilly-dallying by southern opponents. Among other things, the rules provide that no senator may speak more than twice on the same subject on any legislative day.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), who has held the Senate floor since Friday, said strict enforcement of the rules "won't mean a thing." He asserted that he could offer amendments to the bill and speak twice on each one.

"I could keep going on for a week if I wanted to," he added.

While the Senate speechmaking went on, the House debated the $553,000,000 navy appropriations bill.

That chamber passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill appropriating $1,515,000,000 for the treasury and postoffice departments in the 1938-39 fiscal year. The total was $8,100,000 under budget estimates and $61,000,000 under the allocation for the present year.

U. S. Navy Planes Make Greatest Mass Flight In History; Set Record

18 Bombers Alight in Honolulu Harbor This Morn

Honolulu, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Eighteen big navy bombing planes from California swooped down through bright tropical moonlight into the glare of spotlights before dawn today and alighted on Pearl Harbor, completing the greatest mass flight in aviation history in record breaking time.

The first plane touched the water at 7:48 a. m. CST, 20 hours and 30 minutes after the "official takeoff" at 7:18 a. m. CST, yesterday from San Diego, Calif.

The official flight time bettered the previous naval mark of 21 hours, 25 minutes, set by a squadron of 12 planes in another "routine transfer" from San Diego nine months ago.

Only 100 spectators lined the smooth waters of Pearl Harbor's channel to watch the planes roar high over Honolulu, head straight for the harbor and come down quickly in orderly fashion behind Lieut. Commander S. H. Warner.

Unfavorable Weather
Warner said the squadrons flew through unfavorable weather on the first third of the trip.

The planes climbed to 15,000 feet and edged more than a hundred miles south of the charted course to escape a "cold front" of clouds, rain and 35 mile an hour headwinds. Ice formed on the planes, but not enough to cause trouble.

The switch from the charted course over the first of the route caused them to miss the U. S. Reid, first of four naval craft stationed along the route for emergencies, but the planes passed over the other three on schedule.

The bombers flew in two squadrons of nine each throughout the flight, always in sight of each other.

"There was no trouble of any kind," Warner said.

The commander did not rest during the flight. He was admittedly tired but commented:

"If I could get a shot of soup I would be satisfied."

The other 126 men were relieved, and rested in flight.

Life-Long Polo Resident Called
(Telegraph Special Service)
Polo, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Adeline Frey, a life-long resident of this community, passed away at her home at 1:15 o'clock this morning after an illness of four months, during most of which time she was bedfast. Funeral services will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Franks at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon and at the Lutheran church at 2, the Rev. C. D. Kammer officiating, and with burial in Fairmount.

Mrs. Frey was born Feb. 3, 1847, and her husband, Edward J. Frey, preceded her in death 16 years ago. She is survived by four children, Eugene of Cherry Valley, and David, Ira and Mrs. Robert Franks, all of Polo; seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Snowstorms

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Two light snowstorms were reported heading toward Illinois today.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the government weather bureau said one was centered over western Illinois and Iowa after bringing five inches of snow to Des Moines, Iowa, and four inches to Omaha, Neb., in the last 24 hours. Only a one inch fall was expected here, however.

The other storm was more severe but was not expected to reach Illinois before tomorrow, which began over northern Arizona, and was headed directly for northern Illinois, might turn to rain.

WILL CONDUCT A MAIL CAMPAIGN TO FIGHT POLIO

County To Raise Funds to Combat Infantile Paralysis

In addition to conducting a birthday ball, celebrating the birthday of President Roosevelt on January 30, the committee in charge of this annual event has outlined other plans to raise money for the fight against infantile paralysis.

Because of the epidemic which caused so much anxiety in the nation last summer, a national organization has been formed to raise funds to combat this terrible disease. The money raised will be used for scientific research work nationally and for individual cures locally.

The money raised in Lee county for this purpose on four previous occasions, while well spent in a worthy cause, was grossly insufficient to do the work necessary to be done. In fact, practically all the money raised was used for surgical expense and hospitalization for one extremely bad case of infantile paralysis. For the reason, therefore, that there are several cases badly in need of attention, and more money is needed than can be raised by holding a birthday ball only, the committee has decided to conduct a direct mail campaign throughout Lee county. The money raised will be divided equally between the national organization and the local committee.

Schrock's Friends Boost Him Again

Friends of County Clerk Sterling D. Schrock are circulating petitions for his re-election as Republican candidate for the office he now holds at the court house. He is completing eight years of service to Lee county, having previously served as county treasurer, and his friends throughout the county have urged him to seek re-election for another term as county clerk.

Senator George C. Dixon was today circulating his petitions for re-election as Republican candidate for a second term in the senate at Springfield, where he is completing a very successful term.

Borah Amused
Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) was amused by one letter he received after his speech against the anti-lynching bill. It came from an old southerner, who had lived through the reconstruction days. He told of reading Borah's speech to his aged wife, tears came to her eyes, the husband wrote, as she commented:

"Well, I'm glad there's one damn Yankee up there who understands our problem, any-

ROSS' KIDNAP-SLAYER NOW IN SAINT PAUL

Agents Believed on Search for Money or Two Bodies

St. Paul, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The journey eastward of Peter Anders, held by the Department of Justice as the kidnaper and slayer of Charles S. Ross, wealthy Chicago greeting card manufacturer, was interrupted today while Federal agents pursued an unexplained mission in this area.

During the forenoon several carloads of the government men left their headquarters here, where Anders was detained after being brought by plane last night from Los Angeles. There J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced Monday the prisoner had confessed the kidnapping and killing.

Other officers believed the Department of Justice men might be seeking the bodies of Anders' victims, Ross and J. Atwood Gray, his alleged confederate, or money he might have hidden in this area from the $50,000 ransom futilely paid by Ross' wife.

Plan Prosecution
Hoover declined to make any statements regarding activities here. The only comment from the agents headquarters came from Edward P. Guinane, St. Paul, Bureau of Investigation chief, who said the prisoner would be questioned respecting the unsolved disappearance of Arthur Fried of White Plains, New York.

In Chicago, the staff of U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe received word from their chief in Washington that he would return tomorrow to take charge of the prosecution of Anders.

Beyond a terse announcement that the prisoner, a curly-haired man about 30 years old, was being taken to Chicago, Hoover refused to explain the stop here. From commercial airline officials, however, came the information that their planes were making scheduled flights.

Agents Secretive
This morning, several carloads of agents left the federal bureau of investigation headquarters here for an undisclosed destination. No one was permitted to accompany them. Whether Hoover was among them could not be learned. It was considered possible they were seeking the bodies of the men they believed Anders slew or money he may have cached.

The FBI chief heightened the mystery surrounding the flight when replying to questions, he denied Anders was a suspect in the kidnapping of 10-year-old Charles Mattson at Tacoma, Wash., but said the prisoner was being questioned "about some other kidnappings." Hoover did not elaborate.

The FBI chief still refused to divulge the contents of the purported confession. He announced Monday, however, that Anders, a one time logging camp worker in the Pacific northwest, had shot Ross and Gray and had apparently hidden the bodies "somewhere over the Wisconsin line" from Rockford, Ill., where, he said, the killing took place.

May Go to Rockford
It was reported at Chicago Anders may be taken to the vicinity of Rockford to point out where he disposed of the bodies. The slayings were believed to have been committed three or four days after payment of $50,000 ransom Oct. 8.

Ross, 72 years old, was abducted on a highway near Chicago on Sept. 25. When arrested, $14,402 was found among Anders' effects. Whether all of the balance, $35,598, was dribbled away by Anders during his cross country meanderings since October or whether he placed part of it in safe keeping was a matter of conjecture.

Any doubt that the federal government had jurisdiction in the case was rejected by A. Bradley Eben of Chicago, Acting U. S. District Attorney. He said the government could prosecute Anders on the presumption he took Ross out of Illinois before the latter was slain, thus traversing state lines.

Hideout Undisclosed
Federal agents made no disclosures as to the kidnappers' hideout which they apparently occupied 13 days before Ross was slain. A story related by George Kukovac, Jr., 26, who said he delivered the ransom payment, suggested the possibility of a farmhouse near Rockford was used.

Kukovac said in Chicago he was Washington—Don't be surprised if you see John L. Lewis and Thomas W. Lamont of the powerful firm of J. P. Morgan walking arm-in-arm into the White House a good many times in the future.

They formed a sort of mutual-admiration club at the White House conference last week. There have been so many of these conferences that it is hard to keep them straight. But this was the Brain Trust conference consisting of labor, industry, and banking representatives, and it proved to be the most important of all Roosevelt's many confabs.

John L. Lewis not only saw eye-to-eye with the Morgan partner at this meeting but also with Owen D. Young, head of the giant General Electric company. The two big business men had never met the big miner until a few days before, but they liked each other from the start.

Absent A. F. of L.
A lot of people wondered why Bill Green or some other A. F. of L. leader did not go with Young, Lamont and the others to this meeting.

This was no accident. Inclusion of an A. F. of L. representative was considered, and the conferees actually got out the list of federation leaders in advance. But they turned thumbs down on them all, decided that Lewis could speak for the whole labor movement.

Secret Luncheon
After the White House meeting, all of the conferees except the President went to the Mayflower hotel, where they lunched together in a private dining-room.

Driving to the hotel, Philip Murray, a naturalized citizen and vice-president of the United Mine Workers, rode in the same taxi with Tom Lamont, and as they got out, the Morgan partner started to pay the bill.

"Just a minute, Mr. Lamont," interceded Murray; "my life's ambition has been to pay a taxi fare for one of the Morgan partners. So I insist."

Murray paid the bill.

REVEAL THREAT TO CHILDREN OF SCREEN ACTOR

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A threat to kidnap screen comedian Harold Lloyd's three children nearly six years ago unless he paid $6,000 was disclosed last night by Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, who said he gave photostatic copies of three threatening letters to the federal bureau of investigation.

The copies were to be compared with similar notes sent in kidnapping cases, then placed in the FBI files in Washington.

Lloyd said the letters were received April 18 May 19, and June 4, 1932, but he did not turn them over to federal authorities.

"I have thought for the last five years that this affair was dead," Lloyd said, "but now that it is revived by the taking of photostatic copies of the letters I want to say that we are well prepared to take care of anyone foolish enough to attempt to harm my family."

The Lloyd residence in Benedict Canyon is surrounded by a high concrete wall. It is guarded day and night. The house is not visible from the road and it is virtually impossible to gain entrance without proper identification.

Lloyd's three children are Gloria, 13; Peggy, 12, and Harold, Jr., 7. Mrs. Lloyd is the former Mildred Davis of the screen.

Sealed Verdict Returned By Jury
The jury in the circuit court returned a sealed verdict to Judge Harry Edwards this morning in the suit brought by Mrs. Rose Leake of Lee Center against William Goehme and Robert Moore. The case went to the jury about 2:30 yesterday afternoon and they deliberated until 10 o'clock last night before arriving at a verdict in which the defendants were found not guilty.

The case of Boehme vs. Leake was docketed to be tried by a jury this morning, but a motion for a continuance was filed by the defendant's attorney, H. C. Warner, and the trial was continued until Feb. 3 when a special jury will be selected from the supplemental panel.

Ruben Baker of this city was granted a decree of divorce by Judge Harry Edwards this morning from Emma Baker, desertion being charged. The mother was granted the custody of a three-year-old child.

Judge Edwards excused the panel of petit jurors until 2:30 Thursday morning.

Evangelist Remembered Biblical Admonition; Church in a Tavern

Marquand, Mo., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Rev. Noel Bremner, Ozark mountain Nazarene minister, reported success today for revivals he holds nightly in a tavern while beer sales are suspended half an hour.

"The tavern becomes a church the minute I place on the walls a sign I have hand-painted which reads 'Church of the Nazarene,'" Bremner explained.

The young revivalist said he was ordained last September. The odd alliance with bartender Murphy Myers began 10 days ago after Bremner had trouble finding a place to preach.

"Finally I recalled the Biblical admonition, 'Go ye forth into all the world and preach the gospel.' I asked Myers, and he said 'All right.'"

Bremner declared clerical formalism "is headed for the ash heap; in another 50 years preachers will have to hunt up their audiences as I do."

So Ozarkians come from miles around to sit on the tables, on the floor, even on the bar, and listen while the music box stops and patrons set their beer aside. Half an hour of religion, then Murphy Myers' place becomes a tavern again.

PRESIDENT WILL CONFER WITH AD-VISORY COUNCILConference Late This Afternoon on Business
'Recession'

Washington, Jan. 19 — (AP) — President Roosevelt, reporting progress in his conferences on economic problems, called together today the 50 members of Secretary Roper's business advisory council—the largest group he has met.

The chief executive told reporters he would talk on any subject the council wished to take up at the late afternoon gathering.

It was generally expected the group would consider broadly all phases of the recession, although the top ranking industrialists who belong to the council gave no advance indication.

There has been some talk of appointing a council committee to discuss industrial stabilization with labor leaders and other interested persons.

The council, headed by W. Averell Harriman of the Union Pacific railroad, has been active since 1933. Its reports on economic matters seldom have been made public, but informed persons have credited these surveys with having considerable influence on administration policies.

able influence on administration policies.

All Sections Represented
All sections of the country are represented on the council, among whose members are Republicans and others in fundamental disagreement with the President's program.

Roosevelt answered several economic inquiries at his press conference yesterday, but he declined to elaborate on his statement of last week that he favored the abolition of holding companies.

After he was told that the securities commission had declared there were all kinds of holding companies, the President was asked whether he had in mind all of them or specified types.

He replied that it would be difficult to give a definition which would cover all fields. As soon as a definition was given, he added, some persons would try to put certain companies in the holding company category while others would endeavor to keep other companies out.

Reports Progress
Roosevelt said he was getting along well in his series of meetings with business men.

Friday the President will confer with several leading automobile manufacturers and the heads of several auto finance companies on the possibility of stabilizing auto production.

Among those invited to today's conference were Clarence Francis, president of General Foods; Walter C. Teagle, chairman of Standard Oil of New Jersey; E. R. Stettinius, Jr., of United States Steel; Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines; Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Good-year Tire & Rubber company, and S. Clay Williams, chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

Speeding up of Russia's armament program is reflected in an increase in orders placed in the United States. Having demonstrated that he can control the domestic situation, Stalin is actively setting himself in opposition to Japanese penetration of China. Russia is regarded in Washington as the only country that will have an important influence on Japanese policy.—Business Week.

Ashton Women's Club Meeting In Memorial Hall

(Telegraph Special Service)
Ashton, Jan. 19.—The January meeting of the Ashton Women's club will be held Friday afternoon at the Mills and Petrie Memorial building. The main feature of this meeting will be the program presented by the Boy Scouts and Cub pack with Robert Dean, Scoutmaster, and Rev. F. Louis Grafton in charge. Mrs. Orpha Knapp and Miss Kathryn Griffith of the Boy Scout department, working in conjunction with Mrs. Carson Cross, the program chairman, have arranged the program of the afternoon which will include a talk by Jack Keegan, Eagle Scout from Polo, who last summer attended the Jamboree at Washington, D. C., and also the world jamboree in Holland.

Special musical selection will be given by students of the local high school under the direction of Miss Lois Walker, music supervisor. The Woman's club chorus will have a rehearsal at the Presbyterian church on Thursday afternoon of this week at 4:15 o'clock.

"Ah Wilderness" Is Typical Gripping O'Neill Drama

"Ah Wilderness," Eugene O'Neill's gripping comedy of American life, will be presented at the Dixon high school auditorium under the auspices of the High School P. T. A. Friday, January 28.

In "Ah Wilderness" O'Neill, one of the foremost American playwrights, has produced a story which is classic in its appeal. The fumbling efforts of parents and children to find and understand each other was never more cleverly handled than by O'Neill.

The characters are real people and the situations take possession of the imagination drawing one back to one's own childhood. These memories provoke smiles then tears. The drama is sprinkled with humor and pathos, near tragedy in the heart aches of parents and the blunders of puppy love.

P. N. G. CLUB TO MEET TOMORROW EVENING

The P. N. G. club will meet at the I. O. O. F. hall Thursday evening. Supper will be served at 6:30 to be followed by a business meeting. The hostesses will be: Mrs. Filson, Mrs. Rossiter, Mrs. Sandberg, Bertha Brass and Edna Pule.

ST. AGNES GUILD TO MEET FRIDAY AFTERNOON

St. Agnes Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church will meet at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon with the Misses Laura and Gratia Rogers, 417 Brinton avenue.

Culinary Expert Says Best Cooks Favor Homey Meal

"The best cooks favor the homely meal," Cooking school days were recalled when that headline appeared last year, as the winners in a national contest of culinary skill described just what makes the face of the hungry American male light up when he sits down at the dinner table.

These kitchen queens testified that diamond-back terrapin and golden ring-necked pheasant would not bring forth that smile of content. When it comes to culinary concoctions, it is none of those fancy dishes with the even fancier names that win a husband's approval, but the plain old American dinners, such as meat loaf, salmon loaf, baked ham and barbecued chicken. Incidentally, too, the prize-winning menus were centered around those "homely" native dishes.

One reason for the popularity of the free cooking school course, which The Telegraph will present January 25-28 in Dixon Theatre, is the wise combination of practical foods and party specialties. Versatility in cooking is encouraged. Familiar, distinctively American dishes are introduced in new guise, made freshly interesting with subtle seasonings, condiments and garnishes.

Soon, in the fascination of icebox desserts and colorful molded salads, substantial tried and true meals will not be overlooked by Miss Lautz, Telegraph home specialist.

Watching a trained specialist in any line, working skillfully, is a rare privilege, and the audience in the Dixon Theatre is certain to find double satisfaction in this personal appearance demonstration. Emily Lautz will work in a compact, scientifically-planned kitchen, equipped with the latest labor-saving devices, accessories and modern products. Here this nationally-known home economics authority will reveal the wizardry of modern, full-time mechanical servants, telling how to win the most service from these conveniences.

Many an expert finds it difficult to talk and work at the same time. Even the best friends have a way of chasing interested onlookers out of the kitchen, particularly when they are creating a fluffy cake, delicate pastry, or French-fried triumphs.

But Emily Lautz has a knack for easy-to-grasp explanations, as well as the ability to communicate her own enthusiasm to her attentive class of students. Whether she is beating up a luscious icing, or offering suggestions for well-balanced meals, simplified laundry, care and use of modern household equipment, or gracious entertaining, that enthusiasm is always radiating from Mrs. Lautz.

Small wonder that the inspired pupils in other communities carry home their free recipe sheets, with memories of the delicious fragrance of delicacies they have watched from the measuring and mixing stage, impatient to duplicate these dishes. And duplication is easy, after such detailed, clear instructions.

Useful and substantial rewards of attendance will be distributed on each day of the Cooking School, starting January 25. Watch the paper for the complete list of worth-while awards, offered by your local merchants and nationally known firms, who are joining with The Telegraph in making this homemaking course possible.

It's free. It's brand-new! It's fascinating and worth while! Reap the benefits of this hospitable school Jan. 25-28 in the Dixon Theatre.

California, with a population of 6,000,000, has had only five deaths from lightning in 10 years.

W. R. C. Installed Officers for Year on Monday Evening

The W. R. C. installation of officers for 1938 was held at the Elks club Monday evening with a large attendance of friends and nearly all of the patriotic organizations of the city were represented, as well as Corps members from Amboy, Lanark and Mt. Carroll. Letters were read from several Corps.

The meeting was called to order by the retiring president, Esther Walder, and the Guard announced the Installing Officer, Mrs. Norma Ogan in waiting. She was escorted in by Conductor and Color Bearers, after which Mrs. Walder gave her report of the last year's work, which showed that a great deal had been accomplished. All holidays had been observed in a fitting manner, flowers, fruit and cards were sent to each Comrade and to Comrade's widows. A box of fruit cakes, candies, jellies, cigarettes and playing cards were sent to ex-service men at the Dug Out in Chicago, carpet rags and silk hose to the Elgin state hospital, 32 glasses of jelly were sent to the Soldiers and Sailors home at Quincy, as well as groceries and clothing for young and old in Dixon, a Christmas dinner provided and a box of toys and candy sent to a needy family. The relief program other than money amounted to $573.75 and the child welfare department program other than money, $146.50. Donations were also made to the Red Cross and the Boy and Girl Scout drives. Twenty flags were presented to schools, churches and Woman's clubs during the year.

The meeting was then turned over to the installing officers who took charge of the installation. The following were appointed to assist: Mrs. Maude Kime, conductor; Mrs. Eva Richardson, chaplain; Mrs. Allan Read, musician; Mrs. Minnie Auman, color bearer No. 1; Wanda Walder, No. 2; Frances Mathias, No. 3 and Mrs. Ethel Gates, No. 4. The following officers were installed:

President—Janna Ware.
Sr. Vice Pres.—Christine Gonnerman.

Jr. Vice Pres.—Mary Busby.
Chaplain—Laura Stauffer.
Treasurer—Esther Walder.
Conductor—Bessie Brandt.
Guard—Cora Person.
Pat. Instr.—Maud L. Hobbs.
Asst. Condr.—Meta Wilhelm.
Asst. Guard—Frances Dauntler.
Press Correspondent—Maria Stackpole.

Secretary—Hattie Lebre.
Musician—Frances Swarts.
Color Bearer No. 1—Ida Rice.
Color Bearer No. 2—Daisy Brenner.

Color Bearer No. 3—Carolyn Boyer.

Color Bearer No. 4—Bessie Reis. The work of installing these officers was beautifully done. The president-elect, Janna Ware, presented the outgoing president, Esther Walder, with a lovely past president's jewel from the Corps. Mrs. Lebre presented her with an electric clock, a gift from her officers. The following program was then enjoyed:

Vocal solo—Betty Jeanne Moss-holder.

Piano solo—Harvie Ware.

Violin solo—Joan Smith accompanied by Mrs. Merton Ransom.

Piano solo—Hollis Brenner.

Violin solo—Donna Hanneken accompanied by Mrs. Westgor.

Donna also gave a song and dance.

After a short talk by Mrs. Ogan, all retired to the dining hall for tea and a social time. The table was very pretty with lace cloth, candles, flowers and silver services. Mrs. Eva Richardson and Mrs. Maude Hoobs poured. Mrs. Hattie Weisz and her committee had charge of the refreshments. Everyone went home feeling they had enjoyed a most pleasant evening, wishing the newly installed officers a happy and prosperous year.

Phidian Art Club At LeGrand Cannon Home On Tuesday

Mrs. LeGrand Cannon was hostess to the Phidian Art club Tuesday afternoon, at which time John Nolf of Chicago gave a talk on "Illustrators."

In his own unique style, Nolf characterized illustrators as storytellers and actors, their works being familiar to all readers of magazines.

The golden age of illustrators was just before the Columbian Exposition and has never been equaled since. Nolf described the art of poster drawing and that of the cartoonist and mentioned several outstanding artists.

Several examples of the work of noted illustrators were shown on the screen by F. A. Hanson.

The lovely tea table was presided over by Miss Jean Hitchcock and Mrs. Harry Warner.

Palmyra Teachers Reading Circle Met Tuesday Eve

A very pleasant meeting of the Palmyra Teachers Reading Circle was held last evening at the home of Miss Marguerite Richardson. Mrs. Delores Redebaugh reported on the subject, "Physical education in curriculum building." Miss Ruth Bowers discussed "Possible and desirable habits of mental hygiene."

The circle was invited to the home of Mrs. Delores Redebaugh for the next meeting, which will be held on Feb. 15. At that time

Miss Lorraine Missman and Miss Goldie Gigeous will give the book reviews. Those present at last evening's meeting were: Goldie Gigeous, Ruth Bowers, Valoris Burdard, Clara Hamiel, Gladys Smith, Edna Pine, Lorine Gilbert, Delores Redebaugh, Lorraine Missman, Anza Lawton, and Lena Bowers. The hostesses, Miss Richardson and Miss Hamiel served delicious refreshments.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET TOMORROW

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet at Legion hall Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock in a rag-sewing bee. A scramble dinner will be served at noon.

Normal University Considered For New Library Building

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The state normal school board had under consideration today a new library building at the State Teachers' college at Normal.

Representatives of the architecture and engineering division were to meet with the normal school officials in an effort to estimate the cost of the proposed project.

Meeting with Governor Horner late yesterday, the board recommended a $25,000 allocation for the purchase of land as an addition to the Carbondale Teachers' college campus. The governor also allocated $50,000 for equipment for the Teachers' college at Charleston.

The board discussed with the governor whether the $500,000 Normal school contingent fund should be used entirely for repairs or for the proposed library building at Normal and repairs.

HOLD MINERS LIABLE FOR DAMAGE

"No one questions that employees have the right to strike or to quit work at any time. Though the employer may have to quit business and may suffer heavy losses by reason of such strike, the striking employees are not liable for damages so suffered, as they have done only that which they have a lawful right to do.

"But labor unions, officers of labor unions, and other sympathizers who, during the progress of a strike, enter into a conspiracy to inflict violent injury upon an employer or upon his property or business and in the furtherance of the object of the conspiracy do, by violent and other unlawful means, obstruct his business or prevent it from conducting its business—are each liable to respond in damages for such loss or injury."

Foregoing are statements of the law of the United States as it is understood by Judge Fred L. Wham of the Eastern Illinois district of the United States court. The decision in which that opinion was rendered ordered 68 members of the Progressive Miners of America and seven local unions to pay $117,000 damages inflicted by the defendants in connection with three years of conflict at the Red Ray mine at Freeburg, Ill., near East St. Louis.

As Judge Wham asserts, the right to strike has been established long in the courts of the United States, but the right to strike is often confused with the right to inflict personal injuries, to riot, to destroy property, and to enter into conspiracies to do all those things, in themselves unlawful.

The reason these legal determinations do not come to our attention frequently is that settlements between employers and strikers are made on a basis that washes up all past performances and involves a new beginning. Because these determinations are not frequent and given general notice, strikers are wont to proceed as though they never existed. Strikers proceed on the theory that the right to strike is the right to injure and to destroy.

We are now working to the end that labor unions will be held responsible for misconduct. Until comparatively recently, organized labor carried on its own affairs independently of the government. It acted as a free agent and dealt with employers, other free agents.

The Wagner law gives the United States government jurisdiction over all matters at issue between employers and employees and makes it particularly the guardian of the right to organize, which, of course, is the preliminary to the strike. In its present form, the law is all in behalf of the union worker and the striker and against the employer.

As it now stands, the employer can not even petition the board for an election to determine how his employees stand in the matter of organization.

These issues were met some years ago in Great Britain as the result of a general strike. Labor laws not only set forth the rights of labor, but also set forth responsibilities that go with those rights.

Eventually we shall come to that in the United States. The new labor relations board so is conducting itself that it will force a New Deal in the matter of labor relations.

When a labor union can contribute approximately $500,000 to a political campaign fund, as one of them did, it is no longer in position to plead financial irresponsibility for its conduct.

THAT NEW STAR

Scientists at Yerkes observatory, at Williams Bay, Wis., have discovered what has been described as a "new" star. The stranger has been named Epsilon Aurigae, after the constellation Auriga in which it was found. But the star is not "new" except in the sense that it is new to science. It has been in existence perhaps as long as our own sun—at least as long that time makes no difference to the man in the street.

The constellation Auriga, The Waggoner, lies north of Orion, which is a spectacular figure in the southern sky late in the evening at this time of the year. Auriga's most spectacular star is Capella, one of the brightest in the sky. It is characterized by a slightly yellowish hue. The newly discovered star is near Capella, but to date we have no information as to which direction it lies with regard to Capella. In fact, it makes no difference. We couldn't see it without a powerful telescope, anyhow.

The amazing thing about Epsilon Aurigae is its size. Using our own solar system as a yardstick will aid the imagination. The sun is 866,500 miles in diameter. Revolving around the sun is Mercury at a mean distance of 35 million miles, and at approximate distances outside Mercury's orbit are Venus, the earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. If the newly discovered Epsilon Aurigae were placed so that its center were where the sun's center is today, it would engulf the whole solar system as far as Neptune.

It is astonishing that anything that large could exist in the sky, relatively near, without having been seen long ago. But it is a comparatively dark star.

Epsilon Aurigae, like many other stars, has a companion somewhat smaller. The two revolve around a common center so that when the darker one gets between the earth and the brighter of the two, the more brilliant component is dimmed considerably.

Discovery of the star is said to have been one of the most outstanding feats performed at Yerkes observatory, and if, in locating the stranger the scientists have developed a new technique, or new equipment, we shall await news of more similar discoveries.

For a long time scientists have suspected that the sky has as many dark stars, possibly, as bright ones.

SCIENCE DESCRIBES A DESIGN FOR LIVING

The role of science in the evolution of mankind is a question on which even scientists disagree. Some contend that sciences such as psychiatry will some day be able to control our minds and shape our ends. Others disagree. Certainly there is no unanimity of opinion on whether it would be wise for the human race to submit wholly to the ministrations of science.

Few, on the other hand, will disagree with the contention of scientists that objective reasoning and logical thinking must dominate such emotions as hate and fear, and rage, if civilization is to continue functioning.

One of the chief contributions of science to the evolution of human thinking has been its ability to reduce generalities and half-truths to concrete statements of fact which will stand up under the light of reasoning.

Thus Dr. Ralph Gerard, professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, comes forward with what he terms three "ear-marks" for the identification of "intelligent behavior."

The first earmark, says Dr. Gerard, is "the absence of superstition; the emancipation from fear of nature and the here-and-now prejudices of the group."

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY by Baer

"Since I got this finger-print set through The Telegraph classified ads to check on Dad, my bank account is growing by leaps and bounds!"

ery of the most impeccable logic to bizarre conclusions."

Dr. Gerard contends that "pure science" is the only hope for the future civilization. He believes that it would be unwise to eliminate the selfish elements of self-preservation from man's makeup, but that it is "surely desirable to control and guide them."

But the scientist refutes, in part, his own contentions when he says that science, through genetics, could improve the human breed—but doesn't know what to breed for; and could train thoughts, motives and actions along new channels—but does not know what to educate for.

Probably most of us would be content just to accept Dr. Gerard's earmarks of intelligent behavior as a design for present living, and let social evolution take care of the future.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

"GRASSHOPPER MEN"

This is the subject of the Wednesday evening sermon by the Rev. F. E. Rueckert at the Grace Evangelical church. This is the last week of this special series which has been thought-provoking in its emphasis on Christ's call to human life and His offer of salvation. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to all. The service commences at 7:30 o'clock.

In his sermon last evening the Rev. Rueckert said:

The First Day in Eternity

Scripture: 1 Peter 1:1-9.

Text, 1 Peter 1:4. To an inheritance incorruptible, an undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in Heaven for you.

Isn't that marvelous? Isn't that thrilling? If you didn't get a thrill, there is something wrong. I find that when folks plan a trip abroad they usually spend a great deal of time in libraries and procuring books from neighbors and friends in order to study the places they intend to visit on their trip. It is because the items of interest will be of greater value to them knowing something about those places before they arrive on the scene. I wish folks would spend one-tenth of the time finding out about the place they wish to go from here. Life is just a brief span. We are here today and gone tomorrow. Where will we go from here.

The old preachers used to say, "Get ready to die." My statement is, "Get ready to live." You will never know what real living is until you find Christ as your personal savior. How much sweeter, how much brighter, how much better life will be with Christ in your heart.

I do not wish to give you my thoughts on this thing, but what God's word says. Heaven is a place, Jesus says "I go to prepare a place for you."

Heaven is used in a three-fold sense: Cloudy heaven where we get our snow and rain. Place where planets are swinging on their orbits. Abode of the heavenly, where we are caught up in the presence of God.

The question is asked: "What will heaven be like?" Do you realize there is more in the scripture about hell than about heaven. It is warning, folks, to flee from the eternal perdition. That is true because heaven is so wonderful, so beautiful you cannot find words in any language to describe the beauties of heaven and all we can get is a glimpse from this angle and that angle to give us some idea of the place he has gone to prepare for us.

Now heaven is spoken of in several aspects. It is called a kingdom, a city, an inheritance, a home, and a rest. There are some things we are certain we will not find in heaven. No shadows, no heartaches, and no sorrows. Rev. 21:4 And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

No paving problems in heaven. Rev. 21:21 And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl; and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

Think how beautiful it would be—pure gold. In this country we find people tearing up streets and repairing them because they would not stand the wear and tear of heavy autos and trucks passing over them.

No unregenerated souls will get to heaven. If Farley would get to heaven, the first thing he would do would be to take the gold out of the streets.

There will be no lighting problems in heaven. "And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it; for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof."

There will be no crime problems in heaven. "And there shall in no wise enter into it anything that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie; but they which are written in Lamb's book of life."

There will be no housing problems. For He has gone to prepare sufficient abiding places for all of His children.

There will be no water problems. "And He shewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb."

The joy of Heaven will be the presence of Jesus, the melody of heaven the name of Jesus, the harmony of heaven, the praise of Jesus, the theme of heaven, the work of Jesus, the employment of heaven the service of Jesus, and the fullness of heaven will be Jesus himself.

There will be three classes in heaven: A great crowd of angels, assembly of the church of the new testament and a number of old testament Christians.

In heaven we shall have perfect bodies. We shall be like Him. We shall have perfect knowledge. We will be perfect spiritually. What a wonderful day that first day in eternity will be, when we see God face to face. There we shall see the King in His beauty.

We will recognize our loved ones. There will be steady employment. Rest is not idleness. Weariness is one of the limitations of this old body. There will be no tired feelings, no weariness over yonder. We will have all the buoyancy of that new body of the Christ. We will have perfect peace. I go to prepare a place for you. God loves beauty at its best. A little girl was walking down the street in a town where they put out the light. As they were walking along she was looking up at the sky and said, "If the wrong side of heaven is so beautiful, what must the right side be!" She had overheard her aunt talking about the beauty of the right and wrong side of material.

Heaven will be a home. What a royal welcome we will receive when we get home to be with Jesus. There is only one way to heaven—repentance.

WILL T. KEMPER, MISSOURI BANKER, DIED THIS MORN

Successful Financier Failed to Recover From Operation

Kansas City, Jan. 19.—(AP)—William T. Kemper, 71, financier and Democratic political leader in Missouri, died today at a hospital where he underwent an operation last month.

Only last year the banker and former Democratic national committee man accepted the $46,000,000 responsibility of chairmanship of the state's new Social Security commission.

"It would take a broken leg for me to realize I'm no longer 60," Kemper said in accepting the Social Security chairmanship.

At his bedside were his three sons, all presidents of banks.

Cast Politics Aside

Casting aside ambitions for a political career, the goal to which he looked forward in his younger years, Kemper became a successful banker and railroad administrator. What was regarded as the outstanding achievement of his business career was saving the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railroad from being junked.

Kemper became receiver of that road in 1917, when it was referred to as "a streak of rust running off nowhere on the prairies of the great Southwest." Seven years later the road showed a profit of $142,000, the first time in years such a condition prevailed.

The Orient railroad, one of the dreams of Arthur E. Stillwell, was conceived as a short route to the west coast and with a terminal at Topolobampo, Mex., was said to trim the shipping distance to the Orient by 1,000 miles. Stillwell interested British investors and fairly good building progress was made until 1914.

With the outbreak of the World War, the British investors began withdrawing their money. The road ran into a maze of financial difficulties, dissolution was threatened, litigation was instituted and remained in the courts until 1928, when American interests gained control.

Performed Miracles

Meanwhile, Kemper performing miracles, completed the reorganization of the road and became president in 1925. Two years later he and his counsel were awarded more than $1,000,000 in fees for their ten-year services.

During the reorganization period the most extraordinary economies ever practiced by a railroad were put into effect by Mr. Kemper. His work was described by B. H. Meyer, interstate commerce commissioner, as "a model for thrift and economy in the operation of a railroad."

In order to save and conserve, Mr. Kemper had the terminal shops at Wichita, Kan., built with lumber from dismantled box cars. Bridge heads, snow fences and depots were constructed of lumber from the same source. Locomotive flues were utilized as posts for sign boards and whistling posts and rails no longer suitable were sawed into short pieces and used along the line as posts for protective purposes.

Native of Missouri

Kemper was born at Gallatin, Mo., November 3, 1866. When a young man he was a shoe clerk at St. Joseph, Mo. As a traveling salesman he was attracted by Valley Falls, Kan., moved there and established several small grocery stores. Eventually he became a bank cashier.

Moving to Kansas City in 1893, he organized the Kemper Mill & Elevator Company and later the Kemper Investment Company and the Kemper Mercantile Company. He was twice elected vice president of the Board of Trade and when chosen president in 1902 was the youngest man up to that time named for the position.

In 1906 Kemper organized the Commerce Trust Company and a year later became its president.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Don't stubbornly refuse anything else.

ALEXANDER IN HALL OF FAME; VERY POPULAR

Baseball Writers Give Him Flattering Vote

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Baseball's solemnly elected immortals showed over on their pedestals today and welcomed their newest member, one of the best loved of them all, Grover Cleveland Alexander.

"Old Pete," the great pitcher, who stood big league batters on their heads for 20 years, joins the select little group enshrined in the hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., by a flattering vote of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Of 117 players of the past who received at least one vote in this year's poll, Alex was the only one to be named on the necessary 75 per cent of the ballots. Needing 197 votes for election, he received 212.

Three other bygone stars fell just short, George Sisler getting 179 votes, we Willie Keeler 177 and Eddie Collins 175. One, possibly two of them, should make the grade next year. Others who trailed Alexander included Rube Waddell, 148; Frank Chance, 133; Ed Delahanty, 132; Ed Walsh, 110, and Johnny Evers, 91.

Those whom Alexander joins in baseball's temple are Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, Napoleon Lajoie, Tris Speaker and Cy Young, all named in past ballots of the baseball writers as the game's outstanding players since 1900.

Two Managers Added
Major league club owners in joint session recently added two great managers, Connie Mack and John McGraw, to the first National league president, Morgan Bulkeley, the organizer of the American league, Ban Johnson, and George Wright, pioneer player and manager.

Alexander's election is certain to strike a popular chord. There has been grumbling because he was not named earlier, and a belief by some that he might never attain the honor because he was, toward the sunset of his career, a very rugged individualist of the diamond, a man who didn't worry about training rules.

"I'm happy to see Old Pete get in there," said a prominent baseball official here, who knew Alexander throughout his big league service. "He was a wonderful pitcher, at least the equal of Mathewson, and the fact that he broke training now and then doesn't matter. I'm sorry he didn't save his money."

Alex, like many another old timer, has had tough sledding since his major league epilogue with the Phillies in 1930. After pitching in five games for Dallas in the Texas league later that season, he finally left organized baseball at the age of 43, and since then has been about the country with the House of David and other semi-pro outfits. He manages his own club now at Springfield, Ill.

But he was a wonder while he had it, for 20 years after he joined the Phillies as a big, freckle faced kid in 1911. He never had tremendous speed, like Walter Johnson, but relied on a sharp curve and unerring control. Almost always he kept the ball low, around the knees.

Alex never pitched a no hitter, but that was about the only thing he missed. He turned in four one hitters in 1914, a record which probably never will be equalled. He won 28 games in his first big league season, another modern record, and for three straight years, starting in 1915, he won 30 or more victories, a mark equalled only by Mathewson. Six times he led the National league in games won and lost, and five times he had the lowest earned run average. In 1916 he pitched 16 shutouts, another trifling record.

Delivered in Pinches
With all his tremendous pitching feats, though, Alex always will be best remembered for a single vital strikeout in the 1926 World Series, in the twilight of his career. It is a baseball classic, one that has not grown old in the telling.

The St. Louis Cardinals, to whom Alex had transferred that season, were locked with the Yankees in the seventh and deciding game of the big series at Yankee Stadium. The Cards held a 3-2 lead going into the last of the seventh, when the Yanks filled the sacks with two out and Tony Lazzari, a dangerous clubber, at bat.

Things were tense. Manager Rogers Hornsby called time out to confer with his pitcher, Jess Haines.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—That touring tennis circus failed to excite the far west... Coasters stayed away in droves... Critics said Messrs. Vines and Perry "packed about as much glamour as Howard Jones" and "went about their chores like robots"... One urged Don Budge to hurry home and turn pro before it is too late... What's you bet the Dodgers don't trade their crooning first sacker, Buddy Hasset, to the Giants before the season opens?... Mickey Walker, now appearing in a Beantown burlesque house, says he wouldn't pick a boxing career if he had to do it all over again... And there's a guy who reached the top... What was Bill DeCorvet, the Chicago football sensation, doing on the Ohio campus the other day?

Sports cocktail: Joe Medwick isn't kidding about that raise... Glen Lee blows in today to fight Fred Apostoli... Marty Forkins, who manages Jesse Owens, told the New York Post Jesse collected $50,000 from the Republican party for stumping for Landon... No wonder Jesse can afford to go back to the amateurs... Those touring pro football teams are finding out the grid season ends the first week in December... Ben Bernie is urging Dick Metz, the handsome golf pro, to take a movie test.

Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop, has gone in for sheep raising in California... "You can cash in on 'em twice a year," says Arky—"on the wool and again on the lambs"... Some of the Hollywood dolls were making goo goo eyes at Elmore (Honey) Hackney, handsome Duke back, when he went out there for the east-west game... In making nominations for the baseball hall of fame, the boys seem to have overlooked a gent named Abner Doubleday... Of course, old Ab did invent the game... Some of the gossip columns say Joe Louis may have an announcement shortly.

Old Alex, who had pitched brilliantly to win the previous day, and then had celebrated well into the night, was snoozing blissfully in the bull pen. Hornsby beckoned him, in a last desperate effort to stave off the Yanks.

Alex roused himself, cocked his cap over one eye, and trudged slowly through the mist as the crowd, at first unbelieving, rose to shout his name. Then, after a brief warm-up, he struck out Lazzari on three pitched balls. Wearily he toiled two more innings to clinch the game and the series, and then he went back to sleep.

MACPHAIL NAMED VICE PRESIDENT OF DODGERS CLUB

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Larry MacPhail today was named executive vice president of the Brooklyn baseball club under a long term contract and will assume his duties immediately.

MacPhail, former general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, "already has submitted a complete and extensive program designed to establish the Brooklyn club as an aggressive competitor" in the National league, Dodger officials announced. He has been given full authority in handling the affairs of the Dodgers and their minor league connections. The club expressed "particular pride" in signing MacPhail to a contract, and added that his "great experience and ability fully qualify him" for the position he has undertaken.

As general manager at Cincinnati from 1934 to his resignation in November, 1936, MacPhail brought the team out of the red financially and was responsible for the introduction of night baseball in the major leagues.

Knacks, Sterling Enjoy Light Workout at Wires And Telegraph Expense

Keep Positions At Top Of Industrial Cage Loop

Knacks and Sterling Walz Lunch basketball teams enjoyed little more than a light workout against the second division teams of the Industrial league Tuesday night, the former trouncing the Reynolds Wires 30 to 15, and the latter drubbing the Newsboys 37 to 10.

The Knacks worked smoothly against their Wire Co. opponents from the opening whistle. The factory men, impotent as ever in their shooting, were hurried on nearly every attempt, and although they had seven chances to score via the free throw line, they completed only three shots by this method. The Telegraph quint reorganized with new players, was even more ineffective than usual. In the last half during which the Telegraph scored only three points, all semblance of teamwork vanished into a stampede of players up and down the floor with everybody getting exactly nowhere.

Take Early Lead
The Knacks jumped into an 8 to 1 lead in the first quarter, the Reynolds boys' only free throw being completed by Eddie Grove when he was fouled by Potts. The second quarter was not much more exciting from the standpoint of high scoring but the Knacks exhibited some smooth floor play and got the ball down under the basket with enough speed to keep a 13 to 5 advantage. Boyd started the quarter with a free shot and Bellows tipped in a couple while Eddie Grove of the Wires gave his team two baskets before the half ended.

In the third period the Wires were held to a single bucket by Joe Murphy who had entered as a sub while the Knacks built up a 24-7 advantage. The Factory crew came back to outscore the defending champions 8 to 6 in the final stanza but could not produce enough of a rallying punch to save themselves from defeat.

After holding Sterling on fairly even terms in the first quarter, the Telegraph squad blew up completely and in the third quarter was as lacking in tallies as the Sahara is of rain. From the time Wendt sank a bucket early in the second period until Flanagan arched in a desperate long shot from the south side of the floor in the final moments of play, the Newsboys floundered around just getting in the way, and cluttering up the floor.

OLD PETE PROUD OF ELECTION TO HALL OF FAME

Alexander Employed In Springfield Tavern New

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander has his place in baseball's hall of fame—and he's almost as proud as if it meant his picture on the wall in the little spot in Springfield where he works as "greeter" to the trade.

Old Pete's weathered and fun-loving face cracked in a wide grin when he learned he was the only one of baseball's greats to be voted a hall of fame niche in the third annual poll by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He was proud and happy. But it wasn't the biggest thing that could have happened. Possessed of a sense of responsibility, he didn't always have, 50 years old and a little portly, Alexander thought first of the help from Johnny Connors, given when he needed it most. So, he'd rather have his picture on the wall of Connors' taproom where he tells the boys stories of major league baseball and drinks a little beer with them.

Broke Year Ago
Alex landed in Springfield about a year ago—flat broke, sick and discouraged. Connors, sports promoter and hotel operator, sent one of baseball's greatest right-handed pitchers to a hospital for treatment of a leg infection, paid his bill, and gave him a job in the tavern when he was able to work.

He exacted a pledge that Old Pete would lay off the "hard stuff"—nothing stronger than beer. Alexander, a great fun-lover in the days when he was pitching brilliant baseball for the Phillies, Cubs and Cardinals, has stuck to his word. The beer he drinks with the customers may account for growingly expensive waistline, but the "hard stuff" is still out.

"The hall of fame is fine," he said, "but it doesn't mean bread and butter. It's only your picture on a wall."
"This place is hall of fame enough for me," he added, as he looked at the photographs of sports, political and stage figures, all friends of Connors, on the wall of the tavern. "If I can get my picture up there, I'll be satisfied."

Reminisces
Alexander leaned against the bar and talked of the time he struck out Tony Lazzari with the bases loaded and helped the Cardinals into a world championship, of big leaguers of his time—and of "Empires," a semi-pro club he managed for Connors. He even mentioned a girls' basketball team, backed by Connors, of which he is titular manager, but hasn't seen since it started a tour somewhere in the northwest.

He wasn't much interested in talking about such records as winning 28 games his first year up—in 1911 with the Phillies, winning 30, or more victories in three straight seasons, four one-hit games in one season, 1915; pitching 696 games, a National league mark; winning 373 triumphs, a major league record shared with Walter Johnson; a lifetime mark of 90 shutouts—in one season for another major record; and a National league earned run standard of 1.22 for hurlers working in 250 or more innings.

He did, however, warm up to talking of such oldtimers as Mordecai Brown, Christy Mathewson, Nap Rucker, Honus Wagner, Buck Herzog, Max Carey as well as Rogers Hornsby and Gabby Hartnett of a later day.

He wouldn't even guess at how the 1938 season would go, but he said he was pulling for Dizzy Dean to make a big comeback. In his book, Carl Hubbell, Joe Medwick and Joe DiMaggio are tops among the current stars.

DEHNER AFTER CAGE SCORING MARK, BIG TEN

Illini Center Averages 18 Points Per Contest

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Unles someone finds a way of putting the brakes on Lewis (Pick) Dehner, Illinois' husky center, the Big Ten is likely to have a new individual scoring champion in basketball, and a new record in the bargain.

Dehner was well out in front today in the individual scramble with 90 points in five games, an average of 18 per contest. In a second place was Jewell Young, brilliant Purdue shot winner of last year's title with a record of 172 points, whose total was 60. The Boilermaker star had played in only four games, but his average, 15 points a game, still left him with a lot of ground to make up in his effort to repeat. Dehner's race, it maintained, would carry him past the 200-mark in 12 games.

Ties Individual Mark
The Illini center not only increased his margin but tied the individual mark for one game by banging in 12 field goals and five free throws against Chicago last Saturday. His total of 29 points equalled the record set by Joe Rieff of Northwestern against Chicago in 1933, and matched by Young last year against Illinois.

Ernest Anderson, Indiana guard, and Hod Powell, Wisconsin forward, were tied for third place at 55 points apiece in five games.

E. A. Tamm, acting director of the FBI in Hoover's absence, declined to divulge the G-men's plans, but it was indicated special agents would search today for the bodies of Ross and J. Atwood Gray, an alleged accomplice of Anders.

—Another Suspicion

Elkhorn, Wis., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Sheriff Joseph Dorr today investigated the possibility Peter Anders, accused of the kidnapping-slashing of Charles S. Ross, participated in the abduction of Mrs. Olivia Borgia on the north shore of Lake Geneva last Sept. 2.

Dorr said the description of the abductors given by the pretty, 26-year-old Mrs. Borgia tallied with that of Anders and James Atwood Gray.

The sheriff saw significance in the fact Anders was a horse racing fan and that Mrs. Borgia's husband was well known among Chicago track followers.

Mrs. Borgia was held captive two days. The kidnappers demanded $5,000 ransom, but Walworth county authorities said they had no information it was paid.

—Better Than Average Mentality

The students brought together in these Sight-Saving Classes have average or better than average mentality. In the majority of cases it is found that these students have been getting report cards graded down in the lower brackets, all due to their lack of normal vision and that once they are installed in the Sight-Saving Class they forge rapidly ahead in their school work and rank among the leaders in their classes.

Parents with children whose eyesight is sufficiently below normal that refraction cannot wholly correct it should welcome this opportunity to get the child into a study room where lighting, reading and study conditions are so much more favorable for learning and where the study conditions are such that the child's eyesight will not be completely ruined and where, in fact, his sight may be saved for a happy, useful life.

Crowds in the midtown area halted to gaze at it. Observers said the beam, which vanished before its nature could be determined, could not have been smoke because it was rigid and had the same density through its length.

Ross' Kidnap—

employed by the Ross family attorney to drive toward Rockford on a motorcycle and toss the $50,000 bundle of bills into a ditch when the lights of a car trailing him were switched on and off. He said he carried out instructions and noticed that the lights in the farmhouse flashed in signal fashion just before those on the car blinked.

MARGIN OF MINUTES

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—By a margin of only two or three minutes, Rockford police department said today, he missed stumbling upon the fabled $50,000 ransom payment to kidnappers of Charles S. Ross.

Driving on U. S. route 20 eight miles east of here the night of Oct. 8, Mulford said he picked up a white garbed youth whose motorcycle apparently had just been wrecked in a ditch. It wasn't until yesterday that Mulford learned the cyclist was George Kukovac, the ransom messenger.

Kukovac told yesterday, after disclosure of the Ross slaying, that he was engaged by agents for Ross' widow to carry the $50,000 to Rockford in a package strapped to his motorcycle, to drop it off at the roadside at a given signal and then purposely to wreck his machine to prevent the kidnappers' car being followed.

"I was pretty sick when I learned I must have passed right by the kidnappers' car," Mulford said, "but I don't suppose I could have done much about it even if I had known what was going on."

Boy a Good Actor

"It was only a few hundred feet beyond where I saw the wrecked motorcycle that I picked the kid up to give him a lift into Rockford, so it couldn't have been more than two or three minutes after the kidnappers picked the money up."

"The young guy was a good actor. He told me a frozen piston caused the motorcycle wreck. He wasn't hurt in jumping off the machine. I gave him the name of a motorcycle repair garage and he asked me to let him off at a telephone station. That's the last I saw of him."

"I suppose," he added, "that's the closest I'll ever come to $50,000."

CONGRATULATIONS

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings telegraphed congratulations today to J. Edgar Hoover on the capture of Peter Anders, arrested for the kidnapping-slashing of Charles S. Ross, a retired Chicago manufacturer.

Cummings said: "Hearty congratulations on a fine piece of work."

MAN WRITES OF BIG BLIZZARD

Walter B. Merriman in Reply to Frank Fisher of This City

W. B. Merriman of Chillicothe, Mo., formerly of Dixon, writes The Telegraph an interesting letter in which he explains the calamity of 1888. Mr. Merriman states that at Chillicothe, the residents have enjoyed a wonderful winter thus far. No snow to speak of and the thermometer reading up to about 42 above. Crops were very good with the exception of wheat, he adds, and referring to the calamity of 1888, has the following to state:

"The article written by my old friend Frank Fisher is not exactly correct, so I will tell it as told me by Will and Albert Merriman, sons and brothers of the victims."

"Uncle Lewis Merriman and son Hollie, in a sleigh, went about three-quarters of a mile to feed a hog that was left on the place that they had vacated for their new home that was just built; it was a beautiful morning, no wind and the sun shining bright. They were on their way back home when the storm struck them. They unhitched their team and turned them loose, turned the box on edge and got behind it. Their mother, Aunt Lucy, burned an entire feather bed, hoping they would get the smell and come to it."

"The next morning she saw a man staggering in the snow toward the house. She started to go to him. She found she was freezing so went back and put on another pair of stockings and went to him. He was down and still. She found him with chunks of ice under both eyes, and nose as big as your fist. She did not know him until she opened his coat when she saw it was her boy. She could have been heard screaming for a mile."

"Uncle Josiah Merriman, living to the west of Uncle Lewis, started for Hitchcock in the morning, overtook a little girl going to school, picked her up, but only went a short distance when he saw the cloud coming, turned around and ran his horse for home. The storm caught them but the horse ran into the corner of his barn. The horse was knocked down and they were both thrown clear of the buggy. Neither of them was hurt. He got hold of the guide wire running from the barn to the house."

"The following August I was there, I saw a man that was caught in the storm. He went with the wind, thinking he would strike some place and get in. He struck a straw stack and dug down into the stack and stayed there that day and night. When I saw him the following August, his face was the worst I ever saw. Seven children and their teacher were reported frozen to death in this storm."

Miss Joan Pope was an overnight guest on Friday of her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Dorsey Dayton.

Richest Girl in the World

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
 CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine;
 richest girl in the world.
 BRET HARDESTY—hero;
 bridge builder.
 RODNEY BRANDON—Constance's
 fiancé.
 KATIE BLYN—Constance's "double."

Yesterday, Newspapers break
 the story of Constance Corby, reveal her true identity. Shaken, Connie wonders if Bret will understand, will forgive her.

CHAPTER XIII

THEY walked that night again up their "special" hill. The air was soft and sweet against their faces, in Connie's flying golden hair; it held the promise of spring that would come early to the southern valley. The night was beautiful and still.

Connie's hand, slipped through the crook of Bret's elbow, tightened. "Dearest," she said, "do you remember that first day we met—the things we talked about?"

"Every word," Bret vowed. His dark eyes laughed down into hers.
 Their stride kept pace in swinging rhythm. "I was completely bowled over when I first saw you standing there, so proud and lovely. I made up my mind right then and there I must take care of you for the rest of your life."

"I believe," she said, "that's the only reason you liked me. You thought I was a damsel in distress, needing your masculine protection.
 Now suppose, Bret," again her hold on his arm tightened, "I had been that other girl—the one we talked about that day, the one I pretended to be—remember? Suppose I had been Constance Corby,
 the richest girl in the world?"

He said, "I told you then I wouldn't care for that sort of girl at all."

"And I said she might be just like any other girl. Like myself, for instance."

"She couldn't be like you." His hold on her arm tightened. "There is only one of you. You are the only one. Sounds like a riddle, or a pun, but it's a fact, sweetheart.
 So why are we talking about that other girl? She has nothing at all to do with us." They had reached the top of their hill. There was a log that they used for a seat to survey the twinkling little village spread down beneath them and the stars, twinkling too, in the dark sky overhead.

Bret flicked away the dust with his pocket handkerchief, spread it for her with a gallant flourish.
 "Your box seat, my lady," he said.
 "Your throne, if you will. For, don't you see, you are the richest girl in the world, for all that lies before you is your kingdom. Do you suppose," he added, laughing,
 "this poor subject might sit beside you?"

"I grant my royal permission," Connie smiled; but her heart did not beat so hard now; almost it seemed not to beat at all.

"In a few weeks," Bret said,
 "the bridge will be finished. Then we'll be married. You will be Mrs. Breton Hardesty. How does that sound?"

"It sounds lovely!" Connie breathed. The time had come—her hour was ended—now she must tell him. "But, darling," she slipped her hand into his, summoned all her courage, "I am that girl—just as you said, as we pretended. I am Constance Corby."

He did not say anything. He looked at her; slowly withdrew his hand. "You—but you couldn't be!
 You're pretending now." But he knew that she was not. He saw in her eyes that now pretense was finished. "You're laughing at me!"
 His tone was gruff, as though by employing his own pretense he could change things back again as they had been.

"No," Connie said. "I'm not laughing at you, Bret. Don't make it more difficult for me, darling."

"I—MAKE it difficult for you! I am laughing now." His laugh was bitter. "You were laughing at me then. That day we met, you pretended to pretend to be Miss Corby when I asked you to have dinner. You've been laughing at me ever since, every day, when you played at working in the camp office, when we walked into the hills together, when I told you I loved you, when I kissed your lips..."

"No, no!" Connie cried. "That isn't true. That wasn't pretending!
 That was the truest thing that ever happened to me. The other
 ... you won't even let me explain."

"But you could have told me," he said. He held his head between his hands, not looking at her. "You need not have pretended with me."

"I know that now." She must not expect him to forgive too quickly. She never doubted that he would, once his shock and hurt was numbed. "But I didn't then.
 I know now I should have told you much sooner. But it need not make any difference between us!"
 she added eagerly. If he would look at her, if he had not withdrawn his hand.

"No," he said, still not looking up, "the only difference it makes is that there is nothing between us any more."

"Bret! You can't mean that! I'm just the same. You're just the same. We love each other."

MILLION CLAIMS FOR INSURANCE FILED IN MONTH

Fourth of Claims Not Val- id Government Offi- cials Believe

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The labor department reported today that 1,162,000 persons filed claims for unemployment insurance benefits during the first week of January.

These were the first claims presented under new laws in 21 states and the District of Columbia. The total included 8,857 claims in Wisconsin, which began its payments earlier.

Social security officials estimated that about one-fourth of the claims were not valid, having been registered by persons unfamiliar with requirements that they must have been employed for a stipulated period in 1937.

There were 452,035 new applications for work received by the Federal employment service in December—the largest number in any month since December, 1935.

Walgreen Clerk Wins Paris Trip

The Memphis Press-Scimitar has recently announced that Miss Peggy Wright, table girl at the Walgreen store at 2 S. Main St., Memphis, Tenn., is the winner of their radio contest and as a prize, she will be awarded a trip to Paris.

The contest consisted of an accurate knowledge of the appearance of 54 radio stars and the ability to write a concise and to-the-point letter on which Memphis radio program she liked best. Miss Wright's was not only neat and simply prepared, but accurate.

She says, "Of course I want to see some of the night spots, but what I really want to see are the historical places."

Around the middle of February she will don traveling clothes and climb aboard the American Airlines plane for New York. There she will catch a boat for Paris.

Engineers to See Film of Big Bridge

The Rock River Chapter of the Illinois Society of Engineers, which was organized last fall in Dixon, has made arrangements for a very interesting program for its members and friends. This program is to be held in Rockford Friday, through the courtesy of the Bethlehem Steel Company, a sound moving picture showing the construction of the world famous Golden Gate bridge which will be presented at 7:30 P. M. at the Rockford Elks club house. Invitations were awarded to members and friends last week and so great has been the demand for additional invitations that there may be two showings of the film on Friday evening in order, not to disappoint those who wish to see this interesting engineering movie.

On Jan. 27, 28 and 29, the Fifty-third annual meeting of the Illinois Society of Engineers will be held in the Jefferson hotel at Peoria. Several prominent engineers will be on the program and many engineers from Dixon and the Rock River valley are planning to attend. The annual banquet will be served Friday evening, Jan. 28 at the Jefferson Hotel.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

important. It gives the best idea of what the shooting was all about. Chief organizers were Rex Tugwell, ex-brain truster, and Charles Taussig, president of the American Molasses company, and now Tugwell's boss. Adolf Berle, attorney for the molasses company and another original brain truster, also was in on it. In short, the old brain trust was back in full bloom. Taussig and Tugwell, the latter now understanding the business viewpoint, several weeks ago started talking with Lewis and his smart young assistant, Lee Pressman, about the need of co-operation among government, business and labor.

In New York they talked with Owen Young and the J. P. Morgan partners. Then they brought Lewis up to New York for several round-table talks, finally suggested to the President that they all be invited to the White House.

Who Killed NRA?

It is important to remember that the old brain trust (except for Professor Moley, who early was a misfit) never agreed with the NRA. They thought General Johnson and Don Richberg had killed a golden opportunity by permitting industry to fix prices and cut production. The brain trust advocated the policy of industrial plenty, not scarcity; proposed increasing production at stabilized wages but lower prices.

This was one of many things discussed with Owen Young, Tom Lamont and John L. Lewis in advance.

Mr. President, We Think . . .

So when they got to the White House, the big miner, the big banker, the big industrialist and the old brain trusters were in complete agreement. They talked straight from the shoulder. Lewis and Young did most of the talking though all participated. There was no wise-cracking. The President listened more attentively, talked less than usual.

One idea they handed Roosevelt was that he, himself, had been talking so much about price cuts that it had acted to stave off buying. Industry didn't buy because momentarily it expected prices to tumble. Thus the President was partly responsible for postponing recovery.

They also emphasized that if prices started dropping, this cut would be passed right back to wages, and when wages were slashed, buying power evaporated.

"Then we'll be right back in a first class Hoover depression," boomed John Lewis.

"You can't expect the steel industry, now operating at 23 per cent of capacity, to cut prices any further," he continued, "when they begin losing money after they get below 40 per cent. The thing to do is to give them more volume through a steady, constructive program. Then they can cut prices."

He went on to cite workers in the building trades working only about 100 days a year, who couldn't be expected to permit wage cuts unless guaranteed a regular number of days of employment—which only the government can do.

Many other points were discussed, among the most important being:

1. The absolute necessity of co-ordination between business, labor and government.
2. That previous White House conferences with business leaders had resulted chiefly in pious expressions, but no actual co-ordination or follow-up.
3. That the government had started laying off men (through WPA) just as it was urging business not to do so. Lewis demanded that there be immediate large-scale government spending.
4. That business should not be attacked merely because it was big, but only when it was vicious; that big business needed to be steered for the benefit of both labor and the government.

Out of all this is expected to come a sort of economic steering committee representing labor, industry, banks, and government.

Jack Garner Sits

In spite of the candid camera craze, certain commercial agencies refuse to distribute photographs showing a public official in an unfavorable pose.

A few days ago one photographer caught Jack Garner as he was getting into a car. He was just letting himself down into the seat, but the finished picture looked as if he were jumping out of the seat after sitting on a tack.

The agency destroyed the plate.

Merry-Go-Round

J. Edgar Hoover takes lunch regularly at a Washington cafeteria, where he is watched with curiosity by Guatemalan diplomat Enrique Lopez-Herrarte, a patron of the same place. Lopez says of Hoover, "He is different from any police official I ever knew in that he uses a distinctive and conspicuous perfume" . . . More conscientious than most congressmen, Representative Thomas A. Amile of Wisconsin declines to use the franking privilege on personal correspondence.

Brain Twizzlers
By
PROF. J. D. FLINT

A loyal and ardent Twizzler presents a mystery for you.

A bruised and battered gentleman of wealth walked into a police station with this story, "Day before yesterday two men forced me to enter their car. They blindfolded me until we got out into the country and I was led to a shack where the blindfold was removed and I was questioned. Then I was bound and gagged and kept that way for a long time, except when food was given to me. The other men had joined the party by this time and I was constantly watched. I learned from their conversation that three of them were leaving to negotiate the ransom while one guarded me. I watched for an opportunity and it came just as the remaining man was bringing my food. I leaned over and blew out the single candle which was the only light, and then I lunged from my chair. My shoulder hit the guard's chest and knocked him down, rendering him unconscious when his head hit the floor. I managed to untie the rope and tied him with it. I walked to a nearby farmhouse and then came here. I can take you to the place if you wish."

The police investigated and found the conditions as the man described. They captured the other three men and also held the wealthy gentleman for questioning because of a flaw in his story. What was it?

OBITUARY

ALLEN E. SEAVEY
(Contributed)

Allen E. Seavey, son of Fletcher and Evaline Eastwood Seavey was born in Palmyra township the 24th day of March 1870 and passed away January 14th, 1938.

He was united in marriage to Mary E. Beatty, March 9th 1900. To this union were born two children, Esma B. of Chicago and Theodore R. of Dixon, who with his wife survive him. Besides his immediate family, two sisters and one brother survive him; Mrs. Eda Honey of Chicago, Mrs. Esma Kethley of Dixon, and Clyde L. of Washington, D. C. One sister, Ruth M. and three brothers, Harry C., Fred A. and Roscoe C. preceded him in death.

All of his life was spent in the vicinity of Dixon, except for five years in the west. After attending Steinman Business College in Dixon, he engaged in farming for many years.

The memory of a loving husband, father and faithful friend will be always cherished.

CHRISTOPH HUMMEL
(Contributed)

Christoph Hummel was born on January 12, 1857, in Steinweiler, Rheinfaiz, Germany. His parents were good Christians and brought him to the Lord in baptism in infancy. Later he was instructed in the Lutheran faith. His father died when he was six months old.

He was united in marriage to Barbara Sin, a good Christian lady. A year later they came to Sterling. After four years they moved to Lee county and remained there four years. They then moved to South Dakota and after staying there nine years, returned to Jordan where they resided nine years. They then moved to Lee county and lived there since. Seventeen years ago they retired from farming.

On March 25, 1923 he lost his dear spouse of whom he had often said, "She was a better Christian than

I and has often braced me up." They were not ashamed of the word of God. It was their daily food. Everyone entering the house felt the Christian atmosphere.

The last 17 years he lived with his daughter, Margaret Riegel, in Lee county. God gave him good health all of his life excepting the last five months and he was bed-fast the last five weeks. Mr. Hummel always had good care, but in spite of good care and doctor's skill the Lord Whom he had served called him unto Him on January 2 at the age of 80 years, 11 months and 21 days.

He leaves to mourn his death seven children: Christ of Lisbon, Ia.; Margaret Riegel of Dixon; Walter, of Polo, and Kathryn, of Franklin Grove, and 39 grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Three children preceded him in death: Elizabeth, at the age of 55; Lydia, at the age of 23, and Mary, aged 13 years. May he rest in piece and awake to the new life with Jesus, his Savior.

ONE IN SIX CARS

Only one of every six automobiles on the highways of the United States has a market value as high as $500, according to a study made by the American Petroleum Industries committee. These cars, constituting only 16.1 per cent of the total number of passenger cars in use, have an aggregate value of $2,047,890,000, or 39 per cent of the total value of all the passenger automobiles in operation, it is estimated.—American Petroleum Institute.

THREATEN WORLD RECOVERY

The world economic outlook has become more obscure. Although industrial activity outside of United States has expanded further, the severe setback in this country, the persistent decline in commodity prices, and more recently, the slackening of international trade, have increasingly clouded a prospect that, at least as regards the immediate future, had until last summer been decidedly favorable. — Winthrop W. Case—The Annalist.
